

2 December 1976

NOTE FOR: DDCI

1. I had a scheduled meeting with MAG this morning and took the opportunity to get their quick reaction to the attached. They reported back to me this afternoon that:

a. The consensus was that the Notice should not be issued.

b. Its utilization of the statistics is misleading.

c. The tone is defensive and makes no mention of whether this good grade card on rotation is the result of concerted career development plans or whether it simply happens because of the whims of administration or the nature of the job.

2. In summarizing their views, it was felt that the draft notice lacked sensitivity to the way the average employee will perceive the facts of life around here.

B. C. Evans

STAT